PROGRAM CONFERENCE

2023 Presenters

Rebecca Andre

Rebecca Andre has been with SEVP since 2012, and a field representative since 2015. She is the field representative for territory 38, which is the western half of Georgia. She relishes training new DSOs on SEVP rules and regulations, attending conferences, visiting with her schools, and answering questions on the non-immigrant student process. When not on the road visiting the schools in her territory, she spends time with her husband and five cats. She is an avid crocheter!

Rachel Anstatt

Rachel Anstatt is the Program Associate of Exchange Programs at the George Washington University (GW) in Washington, DC. She advises 70 to 100 J-1 exchange students on immigration and academics each semester. Rachel enjoys supporting students in global transition. After she graduated from Wheaton College with a Bachelor of Arts in Psychology, she moved to Germany where she cared for high school students from all over the world as a Resident Assistant at Black Forest Academy. After two years in Germany, she moved to DC where she worked for the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities (CCCCU) as the Graduate Assistant Residence Director of the American Studies Program, and earned a Master of Arts in Education and Human Development from the George Washington University. She recently completed her master's thesis: Measuring the Quality of International Student Programs at Private Christian Schools.

Gay Bennett

Gay Bennett is the Vice Principal & International Program Director at Linfield Christian School in Temecula, California. Mrs. Bennett is an educational veteran, having worked in the public and private school sector for the past 35 years. In 2010, Mrs. Bennett founded the International Program at Linfield Christian School. Throughout the past twelve years, over 550+ international students from 10 different countries of origin have moved through the program, many graduating with honors to attend top American universities.

James Brannon

James spent his early years growing up in China, Southeast Asia, and Central Asia, before moving to Southern California to attend university. There he discovered his calling while volunteering on campus to help international students cross culture and succeed in reaching their academic and personal goals.

Upon completing his undergrad (Biola University, B.S., Biochemistry), James shifted his focus to international education and exchange, developing programs that hosted over 1,000 international students from various provinces of China.

James currently resides in West Chicago, working as Wheaton Academy's Director of International Recruitment. He enjoys staying active and traveling with his family, as well as studying philosophy, science, and geopolitics.

Elizabeth Chavez

Liz Chavez serves as the International Program Director at Northland Christian School in Houston, Texas. During her undergrad at the University of Oklahoma (B.A., French and B.A., International & Area Studies: European Studies), she completed a summer program at Oxford and spent a year as an international student in France. She earned her M.A. in International Relations from King's College London with an emphasis on cross-cultural identity, and she has spent the past 15+ years working on global, multi-lingual nonprofit teams. Her primary goals for Northland's international program are to improve the school's ministry to students and continue to increase the global impact—in recent years, Northland has welcomed international students from Canada, China, France, Mexico, Nigeria, Portugal, South Africa, Spain, and Vietnam. In her spare time, Liz enjoys writing, learning languages including Spanish and Mandarin, and singing with the Houston Symphony Chorus.

Phil Strzalka

I joined the faculty at Wheaton Academy and then the Wheaton Academy Institute as its Executive Director with more than 25 years of experience as an attorney and a management consultant developing and implementing people and operational solutions within educational institutions and other not-for-profit organizations across the country. My deep experience includes strategic planning and the implementation of significant performance improvement, organizational design, business process redesign, and talent/leadership development initiatives for administrators, faculty, and staff. I have grown to become a regular thought leader, author, and speaker.

In my roles and as a parent of three children, I have witnessed, first-hand, the landscape of education changing rapidly. I strongly believe that Christian educators have never been so well positioned to make an impact. It is my honor to currently serve as the Institute's Executive Director. Soli Deo Gloria!

Rochelle Yang

Rochelle Yang has worked at Wheaton Academy for nine years and currently serves as the International Students Director at WA. She also teaches Mandarin Chinese.
